Who is Eligible

For Full-Time Faculty and other Officers of the University (includes Officers of Instruction, Administration, the Libraries, and Research) and their Eligible Children:

Officers are Eligible if:

- You are a full-time salaried Officer of administration, instruction, the libraries, or research; and
- You or your spouse/same-sex domestic partner has a dependent child—a natural child, adopted child, or stepchild, or a child for whom one of you has legal guardianship—who is enrolled in grades K–8 at a private school;

AND:

- Both you and the child live within the five boroughs of New York City; and
- The school is an accredited, private academic institution located within the five boroughs of New York City.

Officers are Not Eligible if:

- You are a visiting officer of instruction or research, or you are a postdoctoral research scientist/scholar, postdoctoral research fellow or postdoctoral clinical fellow; or
- The child is in nursery school, pre-kindergarten, or grades 9 through 12. Note: A PTS will cover only one year of kindergarten.

When Eligibility Starts

Officers who are eligible can receive a PTS as soon as you are eligible for benefits, although you will be only partially covered for a school year if one is already under way. The table below illustrates the portion of the PTS you are entitled to receive if you are newly hired. Note: The day of the month does not have an impact on your benefit. In addition, the table assumes the academic year runs from September to June. If the school operates on a different academic year the scholarship will be adjusted based on how far into the academic year you were hired.

What the Benefit Covers

For eligible Officers hired, rehired, appointed, or promoted after 7/1/2011, or with a break in service of more than 31 days after 7/1/2011:

A Primary Tuition Scholarship (PTS) pays between 10% and 35% of your eligible child’s tuition at a private K-8 school within the five boroughs of New York City, depending on qualifying family income, OR 50% of your child’s tuition for grades K-8 at The School at Columbia University. As with all private schools, admission to The School is a separate process not related to the PTS application process. For more information, contact the Admissions Office or visit their website.

You may receive as many scholarships as you have eligible children. However, a child with two parents eligible for the benefit can only receive one scholarship.

For eligible Officers hired, rehired, appointed, or promoted on or before 7/1/2011, and without a break in service of more than 31 days after 7/1/2011:

A Primary Tuition Scholarship (PTS) pays between 10% and 35% of your eligible child’s tuition at a private K-8 school within the five boroughs of New York City, depending on qualifying family income, OR 50% of your child’s tuition for grades K-8 at The School at Columbia University. As with all private schools, admission to The School is a separate process not related to the PTS program. For more information, contact the Admissions Office or visit their website.

You may receive as many scholarships as you have eligible children. A child with two parents eligible for the benefit, hired on or before July 1, 2011, can receive two scholarships simultaneously, adding up to a maximum of 70% at an external private school, or 100% at the K-8 School at Columbia.

How the Benefit Works

"Tuition" is defined as the portion of the bill that covers the academic program. Other fees such as those for extra-curricular activities, books, or materials are not covered, even if the bill from the school combines them with "tuition."

If your child receives awards and scholarships from other sources, the amount of PTS will not be affected, except that the PTS amount will be capped at your actual tuition liability. A PTS will never pay you more than you need to cover your actual tuition costs.

How Qualifying Family Income is Calculated

The PTS program reviews the most recent year’s federal, state and city income tax return(s) of the child’s family. This will always include your tax return(s). In addition, if you do not claim the child as a dependent, you may be required to provide the tax return(s) of the person who claims the child.

On the federal tax return of you and your spouse (and, if applicable, the federal tax return of the person who claims the child as a dependent, if not you), the “total tax” you pay is subtracted from your “taxable income.” The resulting “qualifying family income” is used to determine coverage, as shown in the accompanying table. \textit{(Note: On the federal 1040EZ form, the equivalent of “total tax” is simply called “tax.”)}

\textbf{Changes in Employment Status that May Affect Eligibility}

\textbf{Layoff}
If you are laid off during a term, your child’s PTS for that term will \textit{not} be revoked. However, he or she will not be eligible for a PTS for any subsequent term.

\textbf{Involuntary Termination or Involuntary Transfer to Part-Time Employment}
If you are involuntarily discharged or released, or involuntarily transferred—other than for cause—from a full-time to a part-time appointment during a term, the PTS benefit for the current term will not be revoked. However, the Officer will not be granted PTS benefits for any subsequent term.

If your employment is terminated for cause, you will be required to pay back a portion of the PTS benefit for the current term, according to the table below, which outlines the portion of your PTS you are entitled to retain if you leave in a given month. Note that the day of the month is not relevant for this purpose. Eligibility officially ends at the close of business on the last day of your active, full-time employment with the University.

\textbf{Voluntary Resignation or Voluntary Transfer to Part-Time Employment}
If you voluntarily resign, are discharged or released, or switch from a full-time to a part-time appointment during a term, you must refund to Columbia a portion of any PTS benefit received for that term. The accompanying table outlines the portion of your PTS you are entitled to retain if you leave in a given month. Note that the day of the month is not relevant for this purpose. Eligibility officially ends at the close of business on the last day of your active, full-time employment with the University.

Leave of Absence
Officers on any paid or unpaid leave of absence are still considered to be full-time Officers, and their otherwise eligible children continue to qualify for the PTS.

Retirement
Upon the Officer’s retirement, children remain eligible for PTS benefits for which they were eligible under the terms in effect (at the time the application is submitted) for active Officers with the same hire date. To retire with this benefit, an Officer must be 55 years or older and must have completed ten (10) years of continuous benefits-eligible service after age 45.

Death
- If a deceased Officer had completed ten (10) years of continuous benefits-eligible service at death, the otherwise eligible dependent child of the Officer, or of the Officer’s spouse or same-sex domestic partner, is eligible for a PTS under the terms in effect for active Officers at the time the application is submitted.
- If a deceased Officer had completed less than ten (10) years of continuous benefits-eligible service at death, the otherwise eligible dependent child may receive a PTS only to complete the academic year started before the Officer’s death.
Application Procedure

You must apply annually for a PTS.

For the First Term Only

In order to print your Tuition Benefit Eligibility Form with your dependent child listed, you must first provide proof to the Columbia Benefits Service Center of your relationship with your dependent. In addition, for your first PTS application for each dependent child, you must also send copies of this proof, along with your other application materials, to the plan administrator, EBPA.

Qualifying forms of proof include:

- for your dependent child—birth certificate, adoption papers, or legal guardianship papers
- for the dependent child of your spouse—birth certificate, adoption papers or legal guardianship papers, and marriage certificate
- for the dependent child of your same-sex domestic partner—birth certificate, adoption papers or legal guardianship papers, and evidence of partnership (in other words, either a marriage certificate issued by a state that recognizes same-sex marriage, or two pieces of documentation that show shared financial responsibilities. Acceptable documentation includes a joint lease or mortgage, joint bank account statement, joint ownership of a motor vehicle, designation of the partner as primary beneficiary in the Officer's will, designation of the partner as beneficiary for the Officer's life insurance or retirement benefits, assignment of power of attorney to the partner. In addition, the domestic partner must be an adult of the same gender, and not related to the Officer by blood. The Officer and domestic partner must have lived together in a committed personal relationship for at least six consecutive months before enrolling for coverage and must anticipate continuing to live together in a personal relationship in which they have joint and reciprocal financial responsibilities)

Note: The first-term process must be followed for each dependent child, even if you have received a PTS for other children in the past.

Tax Treatment
Under current Internal Revenue Service (IRS) regulations, a PTS only counts as taxable income when it benefits the dependent child of a same-sex domestic partner.
